DOs and DON'Ts for 2014 PCSP of the Year Nominations

The following Provider Customer Service Program (PCSP) of the Year DOs and DON'Ts are recommendations from CMS and a compilation of lessons learned throughout the years in selecting the PCSP of the Year. CMS encourages Medicare Administrator Contractors (MACs) to be creative in presenting themselves and to focus on the big picture, as the PCSP of the Year is an award that recognizes a PCSP greater than the sum of its parts.

Do submit a nomination. Over the years, contractors that consistently submit nominations have shown improvements in outlining/presenting their accomplishments.  Do be strategic in organizing the PCSP accomplishments. Focus on how the PCSP accomplishments relate to most or all PCSP of the Year award criteria and PCSP outlined goals.  Do focus on the big picture and what the sum of all PCSP achievements reflects. This is what CMS means by results greater than the sum of its parts.  Do focus on accomplishments related to all areas of the PCSP (Provider Contact Center, POE, and Self-Service Technology) and the broader goals described in the award criteria document (i.e., the sum of the partnerships efforts with provider experience, improved operation, significant partnerships efforts with provider experience, emproved operation, significant partnerships efforts with provider experience, improved operation, significant partnerships efforts with provider experience, emproved operation, significant partnerships	DOs	Creative/ Innovative Approaches	Approaches that Show Proven Results	Strategic Collaboration

Do focus on accomplishments related to all areas of the PCSP (Provider Contact Center, POE, and Self-Service Technology) and the broader goals described in the award criteria document (i.e., the sum of the parts, Medicare provider satisfaction/improved provider experience, improved operation, significant partnerships efforts with providers, efficient/cost effective, timely delivery of accurate and consistent information, integration of PCSP components: Provider Contact Center, Provider Outreach and Education [POE], and Provider Self-Service Technology) when outlining your accomplishments. The more a contractor's accomplishments relate to them, the better.  Do focus on PCSP accomplishments and how well the accomplishments relate to all criteria key words.  Do differentiate the contractor's accomplishments from previous year's accomplishments. By doing so the contractor shows where enhancements, improvements and progress were made. This is very important for already awarded PCSPs of the Year that already received recognition for specific accomplishments.  Do use quantifiable and/or graphic representations of your accomplishments to reflect where you were and where you are.  Do complete CMS' nomination template and completely respond to all questions for each criterion.  Do complete a well-organized required nomination template; however, keep in mind the most relevant items are the accomplishments themselves.  Do verify the accuracy of the information and data entered on the nomination template.		✓	✓	✓
